Containers

Visualize information as being stored in a series of nested containers, like a series of stacking cubes. The innermost cube is the actual article you used. It is contained in a book, journal, video, or other unit. That, in turn, might be contained within a larger unit such as an anthology, a database, or a web site. You might even have three or four containers.

General rules:

» Italicize titles of books, plays, magazines, scholarly journals, and web sites. Enclose titles of articles, essays, songs, poems, and short stories in quotation marks. [pp. 27-29]

» If the author is anonymous or is the same as the publisher, start the citation with the title. [pp. 24-25]

» When the author uses a pseudonym, use that pseudonym. If you know the real name, include it in parentheses. @Oprah (Oprah Winfrey). [pp. 24, 102]

» In publishers’ names, ignore imprints and divisions. [pp. 108-09]

» For pages that are not consecutive, such as newspapers, use a plus sign: “192+.” [p. 110]

» URLs should be hyperlinked, with the beginning http:// removed. [p. 110]

» Alphabetize citations in the Works Cited. When alphabetizing, ignore beginning articles a, an, or the, and symbols such as @ or “”. Numbers should be alphabetized as they would be spelled. [pp. 112, 114]

In-Text Citations: [pp. 116–26]

» All sources cited in the text must be listed in the Works Cited. All sources listed in the Works Cited must be used in the text. [p. 20]

» In-text citations, use the first element of the works cited entry. Usually, that will be the authors’ last names. Follow with the page number (Federson and Richardson 11). [p. 54]

» Use as little information as possible, usually the author(s) and page number (Berlant 834). However, if there are two items by the same author, you must include part of the title (Berlant, “Race” 834). [p. 55]

» When a government agency is the author, use all parts as the author (United States, Dept. of Labor, Bur. of Labor Statistics). [p. 117]

» The author’s last name may be included in the text and only the page numbers in parentheses: According to Federson and Richardson, the film has two narratives (11). [p. 54]

» If your citation starts with the title, use part of the title, with the same punctuation or italics (Diagnostic 441) or (“Lallygag” 598). [pp. 55-56]

» For video and audio media, give the time (“Life” 00:07:25-30). [p. 57]

» When an author uses a pseudonym, use that pseudonym (@cia). [p. 24]

» Use indirect sources only when the original is not available. This occurs when Person A is quoted or summarized in Person B’s essay. Indicate an indirect source by using “qtd. in” before the source cited: Hemingway believes that “courage is grace under pressure” (qtd. in Berlant 834). [p. 124]
